Why FBO and Religious Leaders are critical?

- Equipped with courage and vision, who play a unique role in bringing people together around the universal values of our common humanity
- they have helped as first responders and counsellors, combatting stigma, providing food assistance and praying for the world and the policymakers
- They use their moral authority to advocate for the empowerment of women, access to education and health facilities, and to address increasing of violence against women and girls as this pandemic spreads.

Disease outbreaks increase

- girls' and women's duties caring for elderly and ill family members, as well as for siblings who are out of school.
- the food insecurity that affected women who often responsible for food provider at home
- Economic issues which push women especially from low income to get additional job to help their family

What We do

Ensuring the safety of the health worker (PPE, Social protection from stigmatization, Support) - as 70% health worker are women

What We Do?

- Public health awareness (esp vulnerable people)
- Dissemination and Information
- Call center – information, psychosocial
- Social protection – food security – distribution of basic food supplies, urban farming, livelihood program (agriculture, aquaculture)
